

Re: Salmonella Alert in U.S Peanut Butter

To our valued customers:

Please be advised that Want A Cookie Ltd. does not purchase any peanut butter or any other peanut derived products from the Peanut Corporation of America. As you may be aware this company is currently under a Class 1 recall due to the outbreak of salmonella found in some of their peanut butter products.

I would like to assure you that the peanut butter, and all peanut derived ingredients used in our dog treats come from facilities that manufactures their products under the accordance of with Good Manufacturing Practices. These are facilities that have established pest control and sanitation programs in place. Every lot of peanut product is tested for the presence of salmonella by an outside laboratory before it is shipped out.

* The company manufacturing plant is Federally Inspected by the Canadian Government (plant # CD14), approved for export to the USA by the USDA and registered as a Certified Organic manufacturing facility by OCIA / Procert.

Want A Cookie Ltd. chooses its suppliers carefully to ensure our own product safety. Want A Cookie Ltd. routinely tests its raw materials and finished goods through our manufacturing plant to ensure the product is free from any contaminants. I hope this letter addresses any concerns you may have regarding the safety our products. if you require further information, please do not hesitate to call.

Sincerely,

Want A Cookie Ltd.
